ABOUT STICK TO IT

Are you having sex?

Then getting tested regularly for HIV and STDs is a fact of life. However, not only is it difficult to find time in a busy schedule, but sometimes it's hard to remember when you had your last test.

Wouldn't a program that helped you remember when to test and eased the stress of the process be helpful?

"Stick To It" is a program designed to do just that; it helps you remember when to get tested and provides a little bit of fun in the process!

We're a team from AIDS Healthcare Foundation, the University of California, Berkeley, the University of California, Los Angeles, and the Stick To It Community Advisory Board.

We're passionate about creating fun and engaging health experiences using technology and games.

While we each bring something different to the table, we have the shared goal of strengthening sexual health programs for gay, bi, and queer men in California and beyond.
